DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments filed 18 August 2005 have been fully considered. Claims 1-19 are pending. Applicant's amendments to the Drawing have been noted with appreciation. In regards to claims 3, 7, 11 and 16, Applicant's arguments have been deemed persuasive. The rejection under 102(b) has been withdrawn. In regards to claims 1, 2, 4-6, 8-10, 12-15 and 17-19, Applicant's arguments have been deemed unpersuasive. Applicant generally that Woods does not contemplate fusion bonding and there is not motivation to combine Woods with Browne. The Examiner respectfully disagrees with this assertion. While Woods does not contemplate bonding the vanes, contemplation of this feature would negate the necessity of combining the reference with Browne. Further, since both Woods and Browne disclose interlocking separate blade portions and Browne teaches bonding the interlocking blade portions together, it is the position of the Examiner that one of ordinary skill in the would have motivation to combine based on Browne and the general knowledge of securing components together.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1, 2, 4-6, 9, 10, 12-15 and 17-19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Woods in view of Browne (2,482,462). Woods discloses a molded impeller including a shroud 17, a rotating plate 18, and a plurality of blades radially arranged on the front face of the rotating plate, the shroud being coupled to the front ends of the plurality of blades comprising: integrally molding the shroud and first parts (20-23) of the plurality of blades; integrally molding the rotating plate and remaining parts (24-27) of the plurality of blades; and joining the corresponding first and second parts of the plurality of blades to each other (Column 2, lines 80-94). The first and second blades parts have planar surfaces correspond with each other and are parallel with the front face of the rotating plate. Woods does not disclose the first and second blade parts being joined to each other at the planar surfaces by fusion bonding. Browne teaches an impeller wherein the first and second blade parts are bonded to together by welding, brazing or any other securing method. Since both Woods and Browne disclose impellers and it is known in the art that fusion bonding is a securing method, it would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to modify the joining method of Woods, with the teachings of Browne, by using fusion bonding to secure the first and second blade parts together.

CONCLUSION

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3, 7, 11 and 16 are allowed.
